TEACHING RECORD

Dr. Vaughan provides education in neuropalliative care and movement disorders to diverse audiences, including patients and their families, multidisciplinary trainees, and practicing neurologists and palliative care specialists at regional, national, and international levels. Specific teaching activities have included:

- Multiple presentations at the American Academy of Neurology (AAN) annual meetings since 2009, including as course director of the primary neuropalliative course (2025 and will do again in 2026).
- Many presentations at other national organizations (including the American Academy of Hospice and Palliative Medicine, International Parkinson and Movement Disorders Society, American Academy of Physical Medicine and Rehabilitation, American Epilepsy Society), and the International Neuropalliative Care Society.
- Numerous lectures at home institutions and at regional and national levels in academic settings, including two visiting professorships. Invited to participate as faculty in a one-week palliative medicine course in Salzburg, Austria in August 2025 through the Open Medical Institute.
- Neuropalliative care coach in three nationally funded research projects focused on integrating palliative care approaches into the treatment of individuals living with Parkinson's disease: PCORI-funded study through all 33 Parkinson's Foundation Centers of Excellence in North America; NINR-funded study across multiple community-based neurology practices across the country; US Department of Veterans Affairs-funded study across multiple VA centers in different states. The latter two are ongoing.
- Neuropalliative care clinic attending (2017-present): teaching medical students, neurology and other residents, movement disorders fellows, and palliative medicine fellows: approximately 6 half-day clinics/week at the University. In collaboration with Family Medicine, she regularly hosts residents from the Behavioral Health elective in her clinic. She has been the director of the Neurology residency elective in neuropalliative care since 2019.
- Inpatient palliative care service attending (2018-present): bedside teaching of medical students, medicine and other residents, and palliative medicine fellows: approximately one week (7 days) per month.
- Course Director (2018-present) for the Neuropalliative care block within PALC6310: Advanced Illness in Special Settings, Interprofessional Graduate Certificate and Master of Science Degree in Palliative Care, University of Colorado at Denver, Graduate School.
- Authors lay literature and delivers community-based lectures aimed at clarifying and promoting understanding of the role of palliative care in neurologic disease.
- Contributor to EPEC-N: a curriculum based on the Education in Palliative and End-of-Life Care (EPEC) program. Created the module on Pain Assessment and Management: <https://www.bioethics.northwestern.edu/programs/epec/curricula/neurology-modules.html>

- Served on the Residency Review Committee, Department of Neurology, Medical University of South Carolina (2014-2016) and Palliative Care Clinical Competency Committee and Residency Review Committee, University of Colorado, Anschutz medical Campus (2018-2024).
- Inpatient neurology ward attending (2012-2014) at the Medical University of South Carolina: supervision and bedside teaching of neurology residents (approximately 3 weeks per year) and medical students and overnight staffing (approximately 2 nights per month) by telephone of new admissions and hospital consults with neurology residents.
- Inpatient neurology ward attending (2012-2014) at the Ralph H. Johnson VA Medical Center: supervision and bedside teaching of neurology residents and medical students, approximately 6 weeks per year.
- Supervised movement disorders fellow in weekly continuity and botulinum clinics at Ralph H. Johnson VA Medical Center (2015-2016), 4 hours per week.
- Served as Neurology Residency Associate Program Director (2014-2015) and as Fellowship Director for the Movement Disorders fellowship (2015-2016) at the Medical University of South Carolina.
- Dr. Vaughan especially enjoys opportunities to teach trainees in Neurology and has mentored multiple residents and medical students. From 2017-2020 she provided mentorship to medical students through the School of Medicine Foundations in Doctoring Curriculum at the University of Colorado. She won the annual Neurology Faculty Excellence in Teaching Award (2015) at the Medical University of South Carolina.
- Faculty advisor for Student Interest Group in Neurology (SIGN), Medical University of South Carolina College of Medicine, 2014-2016.

GRANT SUPPORT

429a	2023-present	Palliative Care as a Parkinson's Disease Standard of Care. I01HX003611-01A2	Co-investigator and coach (PI C.R. Levy)	US Department of Veterans Affairs
429b	2022-present	Building Online Community to Improve Patient and Caregiver Outcomes in Parkinson's disease, Lewy Body Dementia and Related Disorders (COPE-PD)	Site PI and coach (PI B. Kluger)	National Institute of Nursing Research (NINR), University of Rochester

429c	2021-2023	Implementation of a Team-based Outpatient Palliative Care in Parkinson's Foundation Centers of Excellence	Site PI and coach (PI B. Kluger)	Patient Centered Outcome Research Institute (PCORI): University of Rochester
429d	2021-2022	“Neuropalliative care for persons with drug-resistant epilepsy”	Co-PI: (with C. Drees)	American Epilepsy Society
